Hello, Pikes Peak 356!

How much fun are we going to have this summer?! I'm so excited for all the things to come. Not to mention getting back out to go camping and ride the quad. Yes, I'm still going to ride after my small accident. My knee is healing nicely and I get the stitches out on June 10.

I hope you all got the chance to vote for the National Board and the PSW Region Director. One of the reasons I love going to conferences is that you get to meet the current national board and the candidates running for the next year's positions. NAWIC is much more than our AMAZING chapter. These women have wonderful ideas for the chapter, region, and nation. They are inspiring and make you realize it could be you running of one of those offices someday.

If you didn't get to vote for the national board, make sure you attend the June Membership meeting to vote for your chapter board. The slate of candidates was presented at the May meeting. We will have a true election for the Treasurer and Directors positions. We encourage members to run. New members mean new ideas. New ideas mean change. The only way for our chapter to grow and improve is to change. Join us and cast your vote on Thursday, June 20 at Mi Mexico!

Thank you to everyone that volunteered and participated in the Rosie Run! I can't wait to get the final numbers see how much we raised for the Katie Trapp Conference Fund.

I hope to see all of you at the June Membership meeting,

Kristen Ibarra, CDT

Community Outreach

(April – June 2024)

For our second quarter community outreach project, NAWIC Pikes Peak Chapter 356 will be holding a school supply drive to benefit The Hanger, a program of CASA of the Pikes Peak Region. CASA of the Pikes Peak Region is a nonprofit organization that trains and supervises volunteers to represent the best interests of victims of child abuse, neglect, and severe domestic conflict. CASA volunteers are appointed by judges to be a voice for these children in court and in the community. The desired result is that children be placed in safe, loving homes where they can thrive. The Hanger is a store in the back of the CASA office where foster teens can shop for donated clothing and accessories free of charge. It is a simple concept that most of us take for granted, but for a foster kid, being able to choose and wear your own clothes builds self-esteem.

In July, The Hanger holds a back-to-school party for teens in foster care, where they can pick out all their own school supplies and a backpack. This is so important to the youth, as they do not always have the same opportunities to get fun or cool or trendy items for school, so choosing their own items and having a good variety really helps build normalcy. They light up when they see all the options from which they can choose! The Hanger has school supplies available all year long so that they can pick up what they need throughout the year. This also helps when they have emergency placements, as these teens often are unable to grab many items before being removed from their homes and school supplies are not on their mind at that time.

Teens really enjoy FUN school supplies! Look for items that are pretty, trendy, and/or have designs on them, for boys and girls, ages 13-18. Please bring your school supply donations to our May and June meetings or contact a member of the Community Outreach Committee to arrange for pick up or drop off. Feel free to share this donation opportunity with everyone that you know! The chapter will be making one big donation of all items collected on July 12, 2024.

Community Outreach Committee – Samantha Walter, Jessica Swinchoski, Jennifer Zezlina, and Elysa Matthews.

OSHA's Emphasis on Heat Stress Prevention: Protecting Women in Construction

As the construction season heats up, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has intensified its focus on preventing heat-related illnesses and injuries. This initiative is crucial for all workers but takes on particular significance for women in the construction industry, who may face unique challenges and risks. Understanding and addressing these challenges is essential for ensuring the safety and well-being of women working in construction.

The Rising Threat of Heat Stress

Heat stress is a significant concern in the construction industry, where workers are often exposed to elevated temperatures and strenuous physical activity. OSHA's emphasis on heat stress prevention is timely, as climate change leads to more frequent and severe heatwaves. Heat-related illnesses can range from mild conditions like heat rash and heat cramps to more severe issues like heat exhaustion and heat stroke, which can be fatal if not promptly treated.

Unique Challenges for Women

While heat stress affects all workers, women in construction may face unique challenges that necessitate specific considerations:

PPE and Clothing: Women often struggle with finding personal protective equipment (PPE) and work clothing that fit properly and are suitable for hot weather. Ill-fitting PPE can exacerbate heat stress by limiting airflow and increasing discomfort. Manufacturers are beginning to produce PPE designed for women's bodies, but more widespread availability and adoption are needed.

Physiological Differences: Research indicates that women may be more susceptible to heat stress due to physiological differences, such as a higher proportion of body fat and different sweating patterns compared to men. These differences necessitate tailored strategies for monitoring and mitigating heat-related risks.

Workplace Accommodations: Women in construction may also face barriers in accessing adequate hydration and cooling breaks, especially in environments where they are a minority. Ensuring equal access to these essential measures is critical for preventing heat stress.

OSHA Alliance/Safety

OSHA's Heat Stress Prevention Campaign

OSHA's campaign to prevent heat-related illnesses includes several key components:

Heat Illness Prevention Plan: Employers are encouraged to develop and implement comprehensive heat illness prevention plans. These plans should include measures such as providing water, rest, and shade; scheduling frequent breaks; and gradually acclimatizing workers to hot environments.

Training and Education: OSHA emphasizes the importance of training workers and supervisors to recognize the signs of heat stress and respond appropriately. This training should be inclusive, considering the specific needs and vulnerabilities of female workers.

Monitoring and Reporting: Employers should establish procedures for monitoring workers for signs of heat-related illness and ensure prompt reporting and response to any incidents. This includes using tools like the OSHA-NIOSH Heat Safety Tool app to track real-time heat index values and make informed decisions about work practices.

Promoting a Culture of Safety: A key aspect of OSHA's campaign is fostering a workplace culture that prioritizes safety and encourages workers to voice concerns without fear of reprisal. For women, this means creating an environment where they feel comfortable speaking up about heat-related risks and advocating for necessary accommodations.

Find more information about this campaign as well as practical tips to minimize heat stress here: <https://www.osha.gov/emergency-preparedness/guides/heat-stress>.

Practical Steps for Employers

To effectively protect women from heat stress, employers in the construction industry should take the following practical steps:

Ensure Proper Fit of PPE: Invest in PPE and clothing designed for women to ensure comfort and effectiveness in hot conditions.

Tailor Heat Stress Programs: Consider the physiological differences between men and women when developing heat stress prevention programs. This might include different hydration and cooling strategies.

Provide Equal Access: Ensure that all workers, regardless of gender, have equal access to hydration, shade, and cooling breaks.

Encourage Reporting: Create a supportive environment where women feel empowered to report heat-related issues and suggest improvements.

Conclusion

OSHA's focus on heat stress prevention is a vital initiative that can significantly enhance the safety and well-being of construction workers. By understanding and addressing the unique challenges faced by women in construction, employers can create a more inclusive and protective work environment. Prioritizing heat stress prevention not only safeguards the health of female workers but also promotes a culture of safety and equality in the construction industry.

69th Annual Conference

69th Annual Conference

Aug. 14-17, 2024 • Houston, TX

We invite you to NAWIC's 2024 Annual Conference in Houston, TX August 14th to the 17th 2024. You won't want to miss this! Here's what you have to look forward to:

Education:

This year we want to stress the importance of education for our members, so we will have a NAWIC Education Foundation (NEF) CDT Course bootcamp and testing for certification, as well as Continuing Education Credits available to attendees. Our three education tracks will focus on the industry's field workers, office workers, and Career and Leadership advancements. NAWIC members will also have a track specific to the Association.

To take an extra step to reach the next generation, we will be holding a school supply donation drive to give back to the students and teachers in the local Houston school districts. Each person who donates school supplies will receive a raffle ticket for a chance to win a special raffle prize! If you are unable to attend the conference but would still like to participate in the donation drive and raffle, we will provide an Amazon link that will allow you to donate online to be entered in the raffle electronically. The last day to donate electronically will be Thursday, July 18.

Networking:

Each year, we see hundreds of women and men in the construction and trades industry come together for a chance to learn and network with each other. Each day will provide endless opportunities to network and meet new people at events like our luncheons and gala, as well as our wellness events. This year we are partnering with Kelly Lynch Feldkamp at ProVention Plus, a women-owned family business that specializes in injury prevention on and off the jobsite. Kelly will be holding movement breaks to teach people the proper way to prepare and stretch on the jobsite and its importance.

Awards:

Here at NAWIC we love to recognize the women in our organization and the construction industry. This year we will have two luncheons, one to highlight our NAWIC committees with committee awards and one to give out our Industry awards. Join us for a night of celebration for all the amazing women in our industry at the Friday night gala where we will be hosting the NAWIC and NEF Installations along with our Member, Future Leader and Lifetime Achievement awards. Come in your best attire and join us at the after-party!

Mentoring:

This year we have so many amazing keynote speakers who will be there to share their own perspectives on various topics related to leadership, wellness, confidence in the industry, and much more. Jobsite tours are another great learning experience we are providing again this year along with skills labs, such as a dry wall tutorial, construction career camps, and much more.

We look forward to seeing you this summer!
