Hello, Pikes Peak 356,

I want to take this time to thank the membership for your patience. I feel as if I have dropped the ball quite a few times recently. Y'all have never held it against me or made me feel lesser than. You have done nothing but understand and send me positive vibes. I know I only have a couple of short months left but I will do my best to make them great.

Be sure to thank Karla Greeley for the wonderful hard hat tour and meeting at El Padrino. I'm excited to see us branching out with new locations. Our directors are always looking for new places, so if you have suggestions please use the comment box at the membership meetings or send them an email at directors@nawic356.org. We want spaces all over town so send them leads.

Speaking of the comment box, we want your feedback. We want to be a chapter for the membership. We can only do that if you provide feedback so we can implement change. If you want to see a new committee, if you have ideas for a certain committee, would changing meeting times be helpful, if you want to see more networking events, if you want to team with another association, etc. tell us. We will discuss new ideas.

You are all welcome at the board meetings. Join us to see what goes on, how we discuss topics, what we want more information about, and see if it is something you want to be a part of.

I hope to see you all at the August Membership meeting. Our speaker was once a high school cheerleader that I coached. This may make you want to ask so many more questions!

See you soon,

Kristen Ibarra, CDT

President

August 2024

Beat the Heat on the Job Site!

Every year, dozens of workers die and thousands more become ill while working in hot or humid conditions. Workers who are exposed to extreme heat or work in hot environments may be at risk of heat stress. Exposure to extreme heat can result in occupational illnesses and injuries. Heat stress can result in heat stroke, heat exhaustion, heat cramps, or heat rashes. Heat can also increase the risk of injuries in workers as it may result in sweaty palms, fogged-up safety glasses, and dizziness. Burns may also occur as a result of accidental contact with hot surfaces or steam.

Workers at greater risk of heat stress include those who are 65 years of age or older, are overweight, have heart disease or high blood pressure, or take medications that may be affected by extreme heat.

Employer Responsibilities

Under the Occupational Safety and Health Act, employers are responsible for providing workplaces free of known safety and health hazards. This includes protecting workers from heat-related hazards. Here are some actions you should take:

Create a Heat Illness Prevention Plan

Are your workers exposed to high temperatures, either indoors or outside? Use these resources to develop a heat illness prevention program:

- When heat hazards are present, plan ahead to protect workers.
- Understand heat hazards in your workplace and calculate heat stress.
- Protect new workers
- Get guidance on engineering controls, work practices, and PPE
- Remember water, rest, and shade

Provide Training for Workers

Employers should provide training to workers, including supervisors, so they understand heat exposure risks, prevention actions, and first aid.

Know First Aid for Heat Illness

Employers and workers should become familiar with the symptoms of heat illness. When any of these symptoms are present, promptly provide first aid.

Share Materials with Workers

Provide your workers with information so they understand the risks of heat exposure and what actions to take. Keep materials easily accessible in the workplace.

Information for Workers

Federal law entitles you to a safe workplace. Exposure to heat can cause illness and death. Workers should know their rights and what they can do to prevent heat illness.

Your Rights at Work

When it comes to extreme heat at work, you have the right to:

- Speak up about hazards without fear of retaliation.
- Request an OSHA inspection and speak to OSHA inspectors.
- Report an injury or illness, and review and get copies of your medical records from your employer.
- See the results of workplace examinations or tests taken to identify workplace hazards.

Tips for preventing heat illness

- Heat-related illnesses can be prevented.
- Hydrate before, during and after work. Drink 1 cup of cool water every 20 minutes even if you aren't thirsty. For longer jobs, drinks with electrolytes are best. Avoid energy drinks and alcohol.
- Find shade or a cool area for rest breaks that allow your body to recover.
- Dress for the heat. A hat and light-colored, loose-fitting (where allowed), breathable clothing are ideal.
- If wearing a face covering, change it if it becomes wet or soiled. Check on others verbally often.
- Not everyone tolerates heat the same way. Understand personal risk factors.
- Understanding engineering controls, work practices, and PPE.

Know the signs of heat illness and how to respond

Abnormal thinking or behavior, slurred speech, seizures or loss of consciousness are signs of a medical emergency. Call 911 immediately, cool the worker with water or ice and stay with them until help arrives.

Heat illness can cause:

- Headaches
- Nausea
- Weakness or dizziness
- Heavy sweating or hot, dry skin
- Elevated body temperature
- Thirst
- Decreased urine output

If you spot someone experiencing the signs above, take action:

- Give them water to drink
- Move them to a cooler area
- Cool them with water, ice or a fan
- Remove unnecessary clothing
- Do not them leave alone
- If in doubt, call 911 or seek medical care

Additional Resources:

- Prevent Heat Illness at Work Brochure: <https://www.osha.gov/sites/default/files/publications/OSHA4135.pdf>
- <https://www.osha.gov/heat>
- OSHA-NIOSH Heat Safety Tool App for iPhone and Android.
- <https://www.osha.gov/heat/more-resources>
- <https://www.osha.gov/publications/bytopic/heat-illness-prevention>

HEAT EMERGENCY SIGNS

Abnormal Behavior / Difficulty Speaking / Seizures
/ Fainting / Heavy Sweating / Hot, Dry Skin

GET HELP! ACT FAST!

- 1 Call 911 immediately
- 2 Cool right away with water or ice
- 3 Remove extra clothing
- 4 Give cool water to drink
- 5 Do not leave alone

Thanks to all that were able to donate school supplies to benefit The Hanger, a program of CASA of the Pikes Peak Region, for their annual back-to-school party for teens in foster care. We were able to donate all these school supplies in plenty of time for their event!

The Community Outreach Committee is still looking into options for a hands-on volunteer opportunity for September or October. Stay tuned for more details to come once we have this dialed in.
